IDENTITY THEFT

A scam can be initiated via the computer (email, internet, social media), text, postal mail, in person, or a phone call. No matter the origin of the scam, the characteristics are the same:

1. There is something to pique your interest – someone in trouble, big discount offers, lottery win.
2. The individual contacting you seems trustworthy, super friendly, and seems to care about you.
3. There's a deadline associated with the offer – act fast, act now.

Never send money via social media

Even if the person you are sending to is someone you know, their account could be compromised, putting the money in a scammer's pocket.

Avoid posting too many details

The more information you post publicly online, the more opportunity is given to dishonest individuals who want to use this information to get control of your finances.

Always read privacy policies

Sure, they aren't very exciting, but a privacy policy for a site or app spells out exactly how the company will use your information. It's important to know where your data is going!
