However, any amount of the distribution not used exclusively to pay for qualified medical expenses of the account beneficiary, spouse or dependents is includable in gross income of the account beneficiary and is subject to an additional 20% tax on the amount includable, except in the case of distributions made after the account beneficiary's death, disability, or attaining age 65. (Notice 2004-2, Q-A #25)

Q. WHAT IS A QUALIFIED MEDICAL EXPENSE?

A. Unfortunately, we cannot provide a definitive list of "qualified medical expenses". A partial list is provided in IRS Pub 502 (available at www.irs.gov). There have been thousands of cases involving the many nuances of what constitutes "medical care" for purposes of section 213(d) of the Internal Revenue Code. A determination of whether an expense is for "medical care" is based on all the relevant facts and circumstances. To be an expense for medical care, the expense has to be primarily for the prevention or alleviation of a physical or mental defect or illness. The determination often hangs on the word "primarily." (http://www.treas.gov/offices/public-affairs/hsa/faq_using.shtml)

Q. ARE HEALTH INSURANCE PREMIUMS QUALIFIED MEDICAL EXPENSES?

A. Generally, health insurance premiums are not qualified medical expenses except for the following: qualified long-term care insurance, COBRA health care continuation coverage, and health care coverage while an individual is receiving unemployment compensation. In addition, for individuals over age 65, premiums for Medicare Part A or B, Medicare HMO, and the employee share of premiums for employer-sponsored health insurance, including premiums for employer-sponsored retiree health insurance can be paid from an HSA. Premiums for Medigap policies are not qualified medical expenses. (Notice 2004-2, Q-A #27)
